Let's Start!

Let's talk about things you do every day!

Learning Outcome

Accurately use information about people, their likes and dislikes, homes or countries in communicative situations.

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about daily activities.
- I can ask and give directions.
- I can give basic instructions.

Ask your partner:

- Where do you go every day?
- How do you get there?

Let's Explore!

Go straight ... turn right ... turn left! John and Sally give directions to places in their neighborhood.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

- Sally: That was a great lunch!
- John: Yes, I love fresh pasta. I have lunch there very often.
- Sally: This is a nice neighborhood.
- John: Yeah, it's great. I walk everywhere.
- Sally: Where is your house?
- John: Go down this street and then turn left. There's a swimming pool and a gym next to the pool.
- Sally: Do you exercise there?
- John: Yes, I exercise every day. I swim and I go to the gym. Where do you live?
- Sally: I live in Parkview.
- John: Parkview? Where is it?
- Sally: Go straight on Main Street, then turn right on 5th Street. There's a school around the corner.
- John: Can you get there by bus?
- Sally: Yes, there are many bus stations near my home. I take the bus every day. I do my homework on the bus!

Learning Points

Giving Directions with Imperatives

When you give directions, you use commands with verbs and expressions. The verb is in the Imperative tense. You do not use the subject.

Verbs	Expressions
Go	straight (ahead)
Go	straight on ... street
Continue	(straight) down ... street
Turn	right
Turn	left

Examples:

- Go down this street and then turn left.
- Go straight on Main Street, then turn right on 5th Street.

Daily Activities

Daily activities are things you do almost every day. You use the Present tense to talk about daily activities.

Examples:

- I have lunch there very often.
- I exercise every day.
- I swim and I go to the gym.
- I walk everywhere.
